■ Current Position

President, The European Council of Landscape Architecture Schools

Course Director, The International Masters in Landscape Architecture, Nürtingen-Geislingen University

Doctor of Engineering, Nürtingen-Geislingen University

■ Education

Kassel University, Germany
Ph.D. in landscape architecture

■ Profile

Dr. Ellen Fetzer holds a diploma and a doctoral degree in landscape architecture from Kassel University in Germany. She works full time at Nürtingen-Geislingen University in Germany where she is primarily coordinating the international masters in landscape architecture. Beyond landscape architecture, she is passionate about computer-supported collaborative learning in transnational settings, systems thinking and social innovation. Ellen is currently president of ECLAS (www.eclas.org), the European Council of Landscape Architecture Schools. Her most recent initiatives are a thematic network on landscape economy (TELOS) and the development of OLA, the Open Landscape Academy, a global network for democratic landscape transformation.

Justin K. Schilg

DIRECTOR

REDBOX DESIGN GROUP

Justin's practice has taken him between Canberra and the Middle East. His projects focus on education, recreation and play spaces, multi-unit residential and aged care facilities.

Justin brings a highly creative personality to all aspects of project work, beginning from concepts for imaginative spatial compositions through to the bespoke detailing of specialised urban elements. An enthusiasm for wider designfields - fashion, industrial design, art- merges with knowledge and use of contemporary landscape materials, and the results share both artistic flair and build ability. Justin's professionalism and collaborative design approach are an asset to project teams, and he has gained acknowledgement from Clients for his leadership in unifying landscape, built form, civic design and site servicing into a synthesised outcome.

Bionote

I am a licensed landscape architect and academic, involved in landscape-led research projects focusing on cultural landscapes in Southeast Asia. I hold leadership positions internationally and nationally, promoting stewardship of our landscape through academia and the landscape architecture practice. I also engage in research, extension and consultancy work, collaborating through multisectoral engagements to create landscape character systems, guidelines, policy and grants reviews for culture and arts endeavours, and master plans for communities and regions in the country. I have drafted the project Luntiung Pook for PALA and currently help in the Philippines Landscape Architecture Design Standards book. I also assist government offices in landscape-based research and guidelines creation with the current draft of DHSUD's Green and Open Spaces Guidelines for the Philippines and TESDA's Revised Landscape Maintenance Module NCII as examples. Ultimately, I am committed to conducting research and collaborative design discussions to protect and streamline landscapes management endeavours worldwide.

■ Education

Gartenbauschule Oeschberg

The Interkantonale Technikum Rapperswil
Studied in Landscape Architecture

■ Profile

Günther Vogt was born 1957 in Liechtenstein. His training at Gartenbauschule Oeschberg provided the practical basis for his intensive landscape work. His knowledge of vegetation and his skills in cultivation continue to be the cornerstones of his work. His studies with Peter Erni, Jürg Altherr and Dieter Kienast at Interkantonaales Technikum Rapperswil combined the disciplines of culture, design, and natural sciences. In 2000 his office VOGT Landscape Architects emerged from the partnership with Dieter Kienast, with current branches in Berlin, London and Paris. The firm gained international recognition through projects such as the Tate Modern in London, Allianz Arena in Munich, or the Masoala Rainforest Hall at the Zurich Zoo. The work is characterized by a strong design attitude across scales, the cross-disciplinary exchange and fruitful cooperation with artist. From 2005 to 2022, he headed the Chair of Landscape Architecture at the ETH Zurich. From 2007 to 2011 he was director of the Network City and Landscape (NSL). In 2010 he opened the Case Studio Vogt in Zurich, which operates as a platform for research and exhibitions at the interface between academy and practice. In 2012 he was visiting professor at Havard Graduate School of Design and was awarded the Prix Meret Oppenheim by the Federal Office of Culture. In 2018 he was awarded an honorary doctorate by the University of Liechtenstein. As a passionate collector and keen traveler, he is looking for ways to read, interpret, and describe landscapes, and finding answers to questions about future forms of urban coexistence.
